11 ALBERTO GONZALEZ,
12 Petitioner,
13 v.
14 UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
15 Respondent.
16

Civil No.: 15cv00400 JAH
Criminal No.: 10cr00253 JAH

ORDER DENYING MOTION TO VACATE

17 Petitioner Alberto Gonzales, proceeding pro se, filed a motion challenging his 18 conviction under 28 U.S.C. section 2255. Respondent filed a response. After a thorough 19 review of the record and the parties' submissions, and for the reasons set forth below, this 20 Court DENIES Petitioner's motion.

21 BACKGROUND

22 On December 30, 2009, Petitioner was arrested and charged with importation of a 23 controlled substance in violation of 21 U.S.C. sections 952 and 960. Petitioner signed a 24 waiver of indictment and the United States Attorney filed an information on January 28, 25 2010. On February 25, 2010, Petitioner pled guilty to the information pursuant to a plea 26 agreement.

27 In the plea agreement, the parties agreed to a base offense level of 38 or 34, if 28 Defendant received an adjustment for role under section 3B1.2, -2 levels for safety valve,

1 if applicable, -2 levels for minor role, -3 levels for acceptance of responsibility, and -2 2 levels for Fast Track. The parties agreed the government would recommend Defendant be 3 sentenced to the low end of the advisory guideline range as calculated by the government.
4 Petitioner agreed to waive appeal and collateral attack in the plea agreement.

5 This Court sentenced Petitioner to 57 months imprisonment followed by five years 6 of supervised release. Thereafter, Petitioner filed the instant motion seeking to vacate or 7 modify his sentence.

8 DISCUSSION

9 Petitioner moves to vacate or modify his sentence on the ground he was denied 10 effective assistance of counsel.

11 I. Legal Standard

12 A section 2255 motion may be brought to vacate, set aside or correct a federal 13 sentence on the following grounds: (1) the sentence “was imposed in violation of the 14 Constitution or laws of the United States,” (2) “the court was without jurisdiction to impose 15 such sentence,” (3) “the sentence was in excess of the maximum authorized by law,” or (4) 16 the sentence is “otherwise subject to collateral attack.” 28 U.S.C. § 2255(a).

17 II. Analysis

18 Petitioner seeks to vacate his sentence for ineffective assistance of counsel.
19 Respondent argues Petitioner waived appeal and collateral attack, and the waiver was 20 knowing and voluntary. Respondent further argues Petitioner procedurally defaulted his 21 challenge to ineffective assistance of counsel, and his ineffective assistance of counsel 22 claim is undercut by the record and unsupported by legal precedent.

23 A. Ineffective Assistance of Counsel

24 Petitioner argues criminal defense counsel’s failure to inform his client of 25 immigration consequences of a guilty plea may be found ineffective and may provide a 26 basis for vacating a conviction. He maintains he demonstrates both ineffective assistance 27 of counsel and prejudice to support his motion to vacate. He attests his attorney did not 28

1 advise him of the immigration consequences of accepting the guilty plea and contends he 2 would not have accepted the plea if he was aware of the consequences.

3 Respondent argues Petitioner was counseled multiple times by defense counsel that 4 his plea would result in deportation and the record demonstrates Petitioner was aware he 5 would be deported after his release from custody but still chose to plead guilty.
6 Specifically, Respondent maintains counsel informed Petitioner deportation was 7 “practically certain.” Response at 18 (quoting Wassom Declaration, Respondent’s Exh. 8 8 at 2). Additionally, Respondent contends Petitioner signed a plea agreement that included 9 a stipulated removal provision and counsel advised Petitioner on the meaning of the 10 stipulated removal provision and made it clear Petitioner would be removed after he 11 completed his sentence. Respondent further contends counsel’s sentencing memorandum, 12 in which counsel argues Petitioner’s legal status will be terminated and he will be unable to 13 continue residing in the United States, demonstrates Petitioner was advised of his 14 immigration consequences.

15 Respondent also argues Petitioner cannot demonstrate prejudice because he did not 16 dispute the provisions in which he stipulated to removal and clearly articulated his 17 understanding the plea would result in deportation in court and never once raised objection, 18 concern, or confusion over the effect of the guilty plea.

19 The Sixth Amendment to the Constitution provides that every criminal defendant 20 has the right to effective assistance of counsel. In Strickland v. Washington, 466 U.S. 668
21 (1984), the Supreme Court articulated the test for determining whether a criminal 22 defendant’s counsel rendered constitutionally ineffective assistance. To sustain a claim of 23 ineffective assistance, a petitioner has the burden of showing (1) that his or her defense 24 counsel’s performance was deficient, and (2) that the deficient performance prejudiced his 25 or her defense. Id. at 690-92; Hendricks v. Calderon, 70 F.3d 1032, 1036 (9th Cir. 1995).
26 Petitioner must prove both elements. The court may reject his claim upon finding either 27 that counsel’s performance was reasonable or that the claimed error was not prejudicial.
28 Strickland, 466 U.S. at 697.

1 The Strickland test applies to federal collateral proceedings. Id. at 697.
2 Furthermore, the Ninth Circuit has applied the Strickland standard to claims of ineffective
3 assistance of counsel during plea negotiations. Washington v. Lampert, 422 F.3d 864, 871-
4 72 (9th Cir. 2005).

5 To satisfy the deficient performance prong of the Strickland test, a petitioner must 6 show that his counsel's conduct was not "within the range of competence demanded of 7 attorneys in criminal cases." Hill v. Lockhart, 474 U.S. 52, 56 (1985). In considering this 8 issue, there is a "strong presumption that counsel's conduct falls within a wide range of 9 acceptable professional assistance." Strickland, 466 U.S. at 689.

10 Effective assistance of counsel requires an attorney to inform his client if a guilty 11 plea carries a risk of deportation. See Padilla v. Kentucky, 559 U.S. 356 (2010). The 12 record demonstrates Petitioner was informed his guilty plea would most likely result in 13 deportation. The plea agreement signed by Petitioner includes a stipulated removal 14 provision in which he agrees to an order of removal from the United States. Plea 15 Agreement at 10 (Doc. No. 13). Counsel attests that he informed Petitioner that upon 16 conviction, deportation or removal was a practical certainty and he reviewed every 17 provision of the plea agreement with Petitioner, including the "stipulated removal" 18 provision. Wasson Decl. ¶¶ 8, 14 (Doc. No. 44). During the change of plea hearing, the 19 Honorable Ruben B. Brooks, United States Magistrate Judge, informed Petitioner he was 20 likely to be deported and asked if Petitioner understood, to which he replied "yes."
21 Transcript at 7:10-17, Respondent's Exh. 4 (Doc. No. 47-4). Petitioner was clearly 22 informed about the immigration consequences of his guilty plea in compliance with the 23 holding of Padilla.

24 Accordingly, Petitioner fails to demonstrate ineffective assistance of counsel.

25 B. Waiver

26 Petitioner waived his right to appeal or collaterally attack his judgment and 27 sentence. See Plea Agreement at 10. A knowing and voluntary waiver of a statutory right 28 is enforceable. United States v. Navarro-Botello, 912 F.2d 318, 321 (9th Cir. 1990). The

1 right to collaterally attack a sentence pursuant to 28 U.S.C. section 2255 is statutory in 2 nature, and a defendant may, therefore, waive the right to file a section 2255 petition. See 3 United States v. Abarca, 985 F.2d 1012, 1014 (9th Cir. 1993) (holding that, by entering the 4 plea agreement whereby defendant waived right to appeal his sentence, defendant 5 relinquished right to directly or collaterally attack his sentence on the ground of newly 6 discovered exculpatory evidence).

7       The scope of a section 2255 waiver may be subject to potential limitations. For 8 example, a defendant's waiver will not bar an appeal if the trial court did not satisfy certain 9 requirements under Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 11 to ensure that the waiver was 10 knowingly and voluntarily made. See Navarro-Botello, 912 F.2d at 321. Such a waiver 11 might also be ineffective where the sentence imposed is not in accordance with the 12 negotiated agreement or violates the law. See Id.; United States v. Littlefield, 105 F.3d 13 527, 528 (9th Cir. 1997). Additionally, a waiver may be "unenforceable" and may not 14 "categorically foreclose" a defendant from bringing section 2255 proceedings where a 15 petitioner claims ineffective assistance of counsel challenging the voluntariness of his plea.
16 Lampert, 422 F.3d at 871; Abarca, 985 F.2d at 1014; see also United States v. Pruitt, 32
17 F.3d 431, 433 (9th Cir. 1994).

18       The record demonstrates Petitioner's waiver was made knowingly and voluntarily.
19 In the plea agreement, Petitioner agreed to the government recommending a sentence on 20 the low end of the guideline range as calculated by the government. See Plea Agreement 21 at 10. Defendant also certified that he read the agreement and fully understood its mean 22 and effect. Id. at 14. Additionally, at the change of plea hearing, Judge Brooks questioned 23 Petitioner about the voluntariness of his guilty plea. Specifically, Judge Brooks asked 24 Petitioner if he went over the agreement with his lawyer and understood the provisions 25 including the section entitled "waiver of appeal and collateral attack" and asked counsel if 26 he thoroughly discussed the waiver provision. Change of Plea Transcript 89:22-10:18.
27 Both Petitioner and counsel responded affirmatively. Additionally, as discussed above, 28 Petitioner fails to demonstrate his attorney was ineffective. As such, Petitioner fails to 1 demonstrate his guilty plea was not made knowingly and voluntarily, and his waiver is 2 enforceable and forecloses his collateral attack.

3 C. Procedural Default

4 Because the Court finds Petitioner has waived collateral attack, it will not discuss 5 Respondent's argument regarding procedural default.

6 D. Hearing

7 Respondent maintains Petitioner's claim does not merit a hearing. This Court finds 8 the record conclusively establishes Petitioner is not entitled to relief. Accordingly, there is 9 no basis for an evidentiary hearing. See 28 U.S.C. § 2255(b).

10 III. Certificate of Appealability

11 Pursuant to Rule 11 of the Rules following 28 U.S.C. section 2254, a district court 12 "must issue or deny a certificate of appealability when it enters a final order adverse to the 13 applicant" in Section 2255 cases such as this. A habeas petitioner may not appeal the denial 14 of a Section 2255 habeas petition unless he obtains a certificate of appealability from a 15 district or circuit judge. 28 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(1)(B); see also United States v. Asrar, 116
16 F.3d 1268, 1269-70 (9th Cir. 1997) (holding that district courts retain authority to issue 17 certificates of appealability under AEDPA). A certificate of appealability is authorized "if 18 the applicant has made a substantial showing of the denial of a constitutional right." 28 19 U.S.C. § 2253(c)(2). To meet this threshold showing, a petitioner must show that: (1) the 20 issues are debatable among jurists of reason, (2) that a court could resolve the issues in a 21 different manner, or (3) that the questions are adequate to deserve encouragement to 22 proceed further. Lambright v. Stewart, 220 F.3d 1022, 1025-26 (9th Cir. 2000) (citing 23 Slack v. McDaniel, 529 U.S. 473 (2000); Barefoot v. Estelle, 463 U.S. 880 (1983)).

24 Based on this Court's review of the record, this Court finds no issues are debatable
25 among jurists of reason and no issues could be resolved in a different manner. This Court 26 further finds that no questions are adequate to deserve encouragement to proceed further.
27 Therefore, Petitioner is not entitled to a certificate of appealability.

1 CONCLUSION AND ORDER

2 Based on the foregoing, IT IS HEREBY ORDERED:

- 3 1. Petitioner's motion to vacate, set aside or correct his sentence is DENIED; 4 and
5 2. Petitioner is DENIED a certificate of appealability.
